

A Study of Policy on Promoting Cooperation Among Guangdong, Hong Kong and Macao in Sharing Medical Resources

Shaping a healthy bay area is a major task given by Outline Development Plan for the Guangdong-Hong Kong-Macao Greater Bay Area (GBA). The authors have explained what medical resources are, figured out where the cooperation in sharing medical resources within the GBA is heading, and analysed achievements and problems in the enforcement of other policies promoting cooperation among Guangdong, Hong Kong and Macao. After that, the authors have discussed what sort of policy should be adopted to promote medical resources sharing in the GBA. The study has great significance for shaping a healthy bay area in China, integrating Hong Kong and Macao into national development under the framework of ‘One Country, Two Systems’, as well as sharing the fruits of Reform and Opening Up with residents in Hong Kong and Macao. In the future, the policy will boost the integrated development of medical and healthcare industry, which can serve as a major engine of economic growth in the Guangdong-Hong Kong-Macao Greater Bay Area.
